Finish Procedure

To achieve the fine finish on all face frames, doors and drawer fronts the following procedures are followed:

- All products are inspected for defects.
- All products run through a series of sanding equipment - wide belt sanders, orbital sanders, and hand sanding.
- All dust particles are removed.
- Stain coat applied.
- Catalyzed sealer coat applied.
- Hand sand dust off with high pressure air.
- Glaze applied then dried if ordered.
- Catalyzed conversion varnish top coat applied.
- Heated hang dry.

Color & Grain Variations

• Crown products are manufactured with the highest quality and consideration. Select grade materials are our standard. The components are hand selected to provide the best possible uniformity in the grain patterns. However, natural wood has considerable color variations and could contain shades of white, red, black or even green in areas. These color differences come from the minerals in the soil and water where the tree was grown. Grain variations differ between species, and within the same specie from tree to tree. They change for various reasons including climate, forest density, aging, knots, and insects. All wood species will vary in color when exposed to different types of light regardless of the finishes used.

• Due to the transparency of the stains used, and regardless of the stain color, some of the natural characteristics will show through the finish. These characteristics add to the individual beauty found in all Crown products and are not to be considered as imperfections. See updated samples for actual reference to the different stain colors.

Conversion Varnish Top Coat

Conversion Varnish is a new-generation super finish used by Crown to give cabinets unsurpassed durability and lasting beauty. This finish represents cutting-edge technology in cabinet finishes; its resistance to moisture, chemicals, marring, and yellowing in ultra-violet light, chipping, checking, and cracking makes it the best finish available for kitchen cabinets and bathroom vanities. The catalyzed sealer coat with the top coat finish easily meet or exceed any and all standards for kitchen cabinet and bathroom vanity finishes.

Touch-Up

We recommend satin polyurethane for top coat touch-up. You may order quart cans or pens of our stains for touch-up. Touch up kits are available for Golden, Ginger, Latte, Espresso and Folkstone stain colors and Designer White paint. Each kit includes a stain pen, putty stick, scuff pad, scraper and instructions. Onyx and Toffee glaze pens may be added for an additional charge. (See parts and accessories.)

Care Instructions

We recommend that you clean your cabinets with a mild soapy water and cotton cloth, dry immediately. Polish as you would any fine furniture.

Notes

- Liquid glaze upcharge for the Crown line is 20%.
- Paint upcharge is 20% on entire order in the Crown line. Door center panels and drawer fronts are constructed out of medium density fiber board (MDF) when a painted finish is ordered.
- Studio doors and fronts are MDF when painted. All slab style drawer fronts are MDF when painted. Not available with glaze.
- You may order unfinished, but this will void any warranty on doors and fronts.
- * Knotty Alder only. Clear Alder not available in Pro line.
- +In the Pro Line, Dark Chocolate, French Roast and Charwood stains have a 5% upcharge.

Opaque or painted finishes have unique differences from other wood finishes with which you may be familiar. When paints are applied to wood products constructed of several different pieces of wood, expansion and contraction of the wood can cause cracks in the finish where the wood pieces join together. There are several areas on the cabinets where these cracks will occur. Doors may develop cracks in the finish on door joints and seams on glued-up door panels. Stile and rail face frames may develop cracks on glue joints where horizontal pieces meet vertical pieces. Mitered style doors are very prone to develop cracks or breaks in the finish on mitered joints. Olympia Sales Company cannot insure painted product will not react to these normally occurring circumstances. These characteristics are normal and will not be considered for product replacement or warranty.

I have read and understand the above agreement and find that the characteristics of the painted finishes are understood and accepted. I understand Crown Cabinets by Olympia Manufacturing and Sales will not be responsible in the event these characteristics are later found less desirable than expected.
